A View From the Cheap Seats follows Will, his brother, cousin and other travelling buddies all of whom are intent upon living a low budget lifestyle in the most far-flung corners of the world. This witty book shows the reader how to grab the planet by the horns and make the best out of it . It is a humorous, noholds- barred account of both the wonders and horrors of travelling, which deals with aspects from what to eat and where to stay around the world to the best and worst ways to get there. A View From the Cheap Seats is crammed with handy hints about planning trips. It is a very positive travelogue, touchingly personal at times, filled with interesting and insightful observations about a life lived around the world.

About the Author Will Jones is from Oxfordshire in the UK, and of pig farming stock. He decided that adorning a suit and commuting were not for him very shortly after the end of a glittering education career. The sixteen years since have been filled with global travel, ski bumming and the occasional bit of work to top the coffers up. After ten years of radio presenting and telemark skiing each winter in Val d Isre, he is now a full time professional sailor. Will is forty going on seventeen, and has no possessions of note or savings.
